The above Course of Reading is recommended to students of the Classical Course. Students of the Scientific Course may make selections from it.

The above Courses of Instruction include the following subjects:

1. THE LATIN LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The studies of this department include the translation of selections from the Classic Latin Historians, Orators, and Poets, accompanied by progressive exercises in Analysis and Composition, and a course of reading in the History, Literature and Antiquities of Rome. The subjects of recitation are the following: Selections from Sallust, Virgil, Cicero's Orations, Livy, Horace, Tacitus' Germania and Agricola, and Cicero De Oratore, accompanied by such exercises in Latin Prose Composition as the Professor may direct. Students of the Scientific Course are required to read no farther than through Sallust.

Bullion's Grammar, Cæsar and Cicero, Cooper's Virgil, Lincoln's Livy, Zumpt's Horace, and Dillaway's Tacitus and De Oratore, and Arnold's Prose Composition, are text books in this department.

2. THE GREEK LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

The studies of this department include the translations of selections from the Classic Greek Historians, Orators, Philosophers, Critics, and Poets, accompanied by progressive exercises in Analysis and Composition, and a course of reading in the History, Literature and Antiquities of Greece. The subjects of recitation are the following: Selections from the Anabasis and Cyropædia of Xenophon, the Histories of Herodotus and Thucydides, the Orations of Isocrates, Lysias and Demosthenes, the Memorabilia of Xenophon, the Crito and Phædon of Plato, the Philosophical and Critical Works of Aristotle, the Critical Works of Dionysius Halicarnasseus and Longinus, and the Tragedies of Sophocles or Euripides, accompanied by such exercises in Arnold's Greek Prose Composition as the Professor may direct. The prose selections read in this course are contained in the Greca Majora, Vol. 1. Such editions of the Tragedies as the Professor may direct will be read.

3. THE HEBREW LANGUAGE.

The study of Hebrew will be commenced by the Seniors at the opening of the year and continued, with five recitations weekly, until the close of the Senior year. Such a knowledge of the language will be thus acquired as will enable the student to read intelligently the Hebrew Scriptures, and qualify him for reciting with advanced classes in any Theological Seminary. Deusth's Grammar and Exercises, and the Hebrew Bible are used as text books.

4. FRENCH AND GERMAN LANGUAGES.

Scientific students may study French or German instead of Latin, and the students of the Classical course may study German or French instead of Hebrew. Any student is at liberty to take either language in addition to the subjects of the regular course. The following are the text books: French—Magill's Grammar, Telemaque, L'Histoire de Charles XII, Racine's Tragedies, and Bossuet's Orations. German—Woodbury's New Method, Woodbury's Elementary and Woodbury's Eclectic Readers, Schiller's Thirty Years' War, and Goethe's Faust.

5. THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE.

Exercises in composition are required regularly from the beginning to the end of all the courses. The formal study of the subjects included under this head begins at the opening of the College course and continues until the close of the second term of the Junior Year. Fowler's Treatise on the English Language, and March's Method of Philological Study of the English Language, and Day's Art of Rhetoric will be used as text books. The students are recommended to read carefully the History of English Literature, and to examine critically its great masterpieces. The recitations will be accompanied by lectures and frequent drill exercises. The members of every class are required to perform in public once a year. By this method of instruction and drill, the Professor aims to familiarize the student with our native tongue and to train him to use it with facility, accuracy, elegance and power.

The course of Historical Reading includes the History of Rome, Greece, France, England, and the United States, accompanied by the History of the Church and Guizot's History of Civilization. No recitations will be required in these subjects, but as far as the Faculty may judge expedient, each class will be examined in the prescribed text books, and every effort will be made to familiarize the student with the subjects of the course.

7. MATHEMATICS.

The Mathematical studies of both the Classical and Scientific Courses include the following subjects: Algebra; Geometry; Trigonometry, Plane and Spherical; Mensuration, Surveying, Navigation, Analytical Geometry and Calculus. The Select Course includes only Algebra, Geometry, Mensuration and Plane Trigonometry. These studies are pursued as follows:

- I. CLASSICAL COURSE.—1. Sub-Freshman Class—Algebra and Geometry. 2. Freshman Class—Geometry and Plane Trigonometry, Mensuration, Spherical Trigonometry, Surveying and Navigation. 3. Sophomore Class—Algebra completed, Analytical Geometry and Calculus. One recitation daily.
- II. SCIENTIFIC COURSE.—1. Sub-Junior Class—Algebra and Geometry. 2. Junior Class—Geometry, Plane Trigonometry, Mensuration, Spherical Trigonometry, Surveying and Navigation. 3. Senior Class—Algebra completed, Analytical Geometry and Calculus. One recitation daily.

Loomis's Mathematical works are used as text books.

8. NATURAL SCIENCE.

The course of Natural Science is indicated clearly in the scheme of studies. The recitations in this department will be supplemented with weekly lectures. The text books are Snell's Olmstead, Hitchcock's Physiology, Gray's Botany, Olmstead's Astronomy and Burritt's Geography of the Heavens, Youman's Chemistry and Dana's Geology.

The apparatus and cabinet in possession of the College enable the Professor of Natural Science to illustrate with agood degree of fullness the subjects of his department.

9. PHILOSOPHY.

The Juniors, after completing Rhetoric, spend the second and third terms on Political Economy and the Constitution of the United States, one recitation daily. The Seniors study Mental Philosophy the first term and Applied Logic, Moral Philosophy, Butler's Analogy and the Evidences of Christianity the remainder of the year. Hamilton's Metaphysics or Porter's Intellect, Wayland's Moral Philosophy or McCosh's Method, Wayland's Political Economy, Story on the Constitution, and Butler's Analogy are used as text books. The text books are supplemented by lectures and discussions.

Monmouth College.

In this department it is the aim of the Professor to develope the powers of the mind, and aid the student in forming correct principles on the various subjects of the course.

10. RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

All the students are required to attend the worship of God daily, and to recite a Bible lesson weekly. Students of the Classical and Scientific courses will study select portions of the Old and New Testaments. Freshmen, Sophomores and Juniors will read and recite the Epistles and Revelations in Greek. In addition to the usual text books on Moral Philosophy, and the Analogy of Natural and Revealed Religion, the Seniors will take a brief course in Theology, using the "Confession of Faith" as a text book. This course will be especially valuable to those whose professional studies will not lead them to a careful examination of the facts and principles of the Word of God. A course of reading adapted to promote vital godliness is recommended to all the students. The President will give frequent lectures on manners, morals and religious duties, intended to train the students to the life of Christian ladies and gentlemen. All who do not reside with their parents are required to attend public worship and Bible class, in some church on the Sabbath. Students' prayer meetings have been organized; they are well attended. The Faculty regard it as an important part of their work to labor for the moral and spiritual welfare of the students.

The department of Music, under the charge of Prof. J. M. Van Doren, affords facilities for the study of that art seldom found in an institution of this character.

The degree of "A. B." is conferred on students who complete and pass satisfactory examinations in the Classical course.

The degree of "B. S." is conferred on students who complete and pass satisfactory examinations in the Scientific Course.

Ladies and gentlemen are admitted, on the same footing, to all the courses.

HONORS.

In relation to the distribution of College Honors the following principles have been adopted:

I. All graduates in the Classical and Scientific Courses are classified as follows:

1. Those grading on the Grand Average, 9.8, or higher, constitute the first class.

2. Those grading 9.5, or higher, but below 9.8, constitute the second class.

3. Those grading below 9.5, constitute the third class.

The Valedictorian and Salutatorian are elected, by the graduates, the former from the first class Classical, the latter from the first class Scientific.

Students passing from a lower to a higher class, are classified in the same manner. $\ \ .$

This classification is entered on the Λ nnual Register, and publicly announced.

All the recitations and examinations, as well as the attendance, are graded from 0 to 10, 10 indicating as high a degree of excellence as is ordinarily attainable. The "Grand Average" is the average of the attendance grade and of all the recitation and examination grades for the year.

II. A course of study, additional to the ordinary or degree course, known as the "Honor Course," has been established.

III. The "Honor Course" includes six departments, in any one or more of which a student may graduate with Honors, first or second, according to the attainments made.

These honors are in no sense competitive. As many\(as \) complete the prescribed course receive them.

The departments of the Honor Course are as follows:

1. The Classics, including Latin, Greek, Hebrew, French and German; 2. Mathematics; 3. Natural Science; 4. Philosophy, including Metaphysics, Logic, Moral Philosophy, Political Economy, and the Constitution of the United States; 5. The English Language; 6. The Bible.

In general, one-half as much matter in addition to the amount required in the ordinary course, in any of the above departments, must be mastered in order to a second Honor; and additional thereto, an amount equal to that required in the ordinary course, in order to a first Honor. A scheme of subjects in each department will be published before the opening of the next College year. No student who does not rank in the first class in the subjects of the ordinary course will be admitted to an examination for Honors.

IV. Each Professor furnishes gratuitously to candidates for Honors in his department, such assistance as they need. Those desiring regular recitations arrange for them with the Professors, or any other persons they may select, on such terms as may be mutually satisfactory.

- V. Honor examinations will be held the first week of each vacation, Senior included, at which candidates for the Degree of B. A. or B. S. may present themselves. And those passing in any subject of any department shall be credited with the same. In the case of every candidate, the result of all the examinations, will determine the Honor attained.
- VI. Candidates for the Degree of M. A. may in like manner present themselves for examination in any of the departments named above, at any Honor examination, and those passing in any subject will be credited with the same. The result of all these examinations will determine the Honor attained on taking the M. A. degree.

VII. The result of all these examinations will be entered on the College Register and publicly announced.

The Academical Department was established for a two-fold purpose to give needful preparation for more advanced studies, and to furnish a brief course for such as cannot take the Collegiate Course. It is conducted apart from the College, in a building of its own—the one formerly occupied by the Collegiate Department. This building, during the past year, has been entirely fitted up anew and refurnished, and its accommodations greatly enlarged and improved. There have been commenced, and will be more fully perfected during the next year, an enlargement and improvement of the course of study and the educational facilities of this Department. Students of the Academy are under the supervision of the President and Faculty of the College-they are responsible to College law, and have the same advantages as other students, of Scholarships, Libraries, Cabinet, Experiments and Lectures. The young gentlemen of the Academy have a Literary Society in successful operation. A weekly course of Lectures on habits of study, formation of character, and similar subjects is delivered in the Academy by the President of the College. The instruction and government of the students of the Academy are chiefly committed to a corps of Instructors specially appointed to the Academy.

THE PREPARATORY COURSE.

Students expecting to take the Classical or Scientific Course in the College, begin in the Academy their Mathematics, Latin and Modern Languages. It is aimed to make this instruction as thorough and complete as is given in any similar school, and at the same time to provide every means for young gentlemen and ladies to master the subjects belonging to a common school education, if these subjects have been neglected. The Preparatory Course can also be advantageously taken by those who wish to spend a brief time in the study of Latin, French or German, and even this short course in other languages will be found a great help in understanding the structure and grammar of our own.

THE ENGLISH COURSE.

This gives a full thorough training in English studies and in the elements of the Mathematical and Natural Sciences for such as cannot take the time to go fully over these subjects in the Collegiate Scientific Conrse. This course furnishes a full Practical Business Education. The Mathematics are pursued as far as they are ordinarily practically applied. A good English education, including the elements of the Natural Sciences, is eminently useful to those students who are most hurried in obtaining an education. Instruction in Penmanship, by a well qualified instructor, who makes that a specialty, is given without additional charge.

An opportunity will be afforded of acquiring such a knowledge of Book-Keeping and Business Forms, as will qualify for ordinary business. Those taking the English Course who do not wish to receive a commercial education, can omit Book-Keeping.

ENGLISH EXERCISES.

Practical as well as theoretical acquaintance with our own language is specially required. The Department of English Language in the Academy will hereafter be in charge of an Instructor specially appointed thereto. None in any class can be excused from Reading and Spelling without an examination. A deficiency here has its effect, as much as in any study, in barring the advancement of students from any class to a higher. Exercises in Composition and Declamation are regularly required of all the classes. Frequent and regular drill exercises are given in forming, transposing and rendering sentences; correcting common errors; applying grammatical and rhetorical rules; writing from dictation; distinguishing, defining and contrasting words, phrases and modes of expression. The study of Rhetoric will also be combined with critical readings of choice extracts from the best authors.

PEXMANSHIP.

Daily lessons in Business Writing are given to all classes, from which none are excused without examination. A "Course in Ornamental Writing," and a "Teachers' Course in Penmanship," can be taken at extra charges.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

The same general requirements exist in respect to Religious Instruction as in the College. The Life of Christ, as narrated in the different Gospels, is studied by the Junior Class, and the Acts, together with historical and biographical items in the Epistles, by the other classes. Students should bring with them such helps as they can command for these studies.

Jormal Jepartment.

The Normal Department is intended to be a training school for teachers. For the benefit of teachers in our public schools, a brief course has been arranged in the following subjects, viz: Spelling, Reading, Penmanship, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geography, History, English Grammar, Physiology, Single-Entry Book-Keeping, School Gymnastics, Music and the Theory and Practice of Teaching. Students are expected to have a fair knowledge of these subjects before entering this department. They are then taken through a more critical course in them and instructed in much that pertains to school management and to the office and work of the teacher.

A Teachers' Class will be organized in the Academy at the opening of the next College year, and will complete the above course in one year, with one exercise daily, in addition to other recitations in the regular subjects of the Academical Course. This class is intended for students of the Academy who desire to prepare themselves for becoming teachers.

A Normal Class will also be organized in the College at the opening of each term, which, with not less than three exercises daily, will complete the above course in one term of three months. This class is intended for those who have had some experience in teaching and who desire to qualify themselves more fully for their work. College students may complete the Normal Course in one year with this class by taking one recitation daily

An examination will be held in the above subjects, at the close of the course, and a certificate of attainments and qualifications given to those who pass satisfactorily.

For information in relation to tuition in this department the student is referred to the item, "Expenses," under the head of "Additional Information."

Opportunities are afforded to those who wish to qualify themselves for giving instruction in special subjects, or for principalships in Academies or High Schools, for taking such higher courses as they may select, and for pursuing them to any extent they may desire. Arrangements have been made for instruction in the following departments, viz: 1st. The English Language; 2d. Penmanship; 3d. Music, Vocal and Instrumental; 4th. Latin and Greek; 5th. French and German; 6th. Mathematics; 7th. Natural Science; 8th. Philosophy: 9th. The Bible.

In these departments the Professor will aim, not only at communinicating a thorough knowledge of the subjects taught, but also at instructing the student in the best manner of teaching them. Those proposing to enter on any one of these special courses will be required to have completed the subjects as taught in the regular College course, or to be studying them in the College classes at the same time. Special attention will be given to those who desire to prepare for the examinations for State certificates.

Students pursuing the subjects of either of the special departments named above, will pay such fees as may be agreed upon between them and the Professor in charge of the department.

∰erçantile Pepartment.

Students of the Academy, in connection with their other studies, will have the opportunity of studying Single Entry Book-Keeping and Business Forms.

A class will be organized in the Academy for the study of Book-Keeping in all its forms and applications, Business Forms and Commercial Arithmetic at the opening of each term; and in the College whenever a sufficient number of students desire it.

Opportunities will be afforded for the study and practice of Penmanship, to any extent desired, with a competent instructor.

This Department will afford all the advantages of an ordinary Mercantile College, to students, while pursuing the subjects of the regular Academical or College course, as well as to those who desire to confine themselves to the proper subjects of the department.

For information in relation to tuition, the student is referred to the item, "Expenses," under the head of "Additional Information."

Additional

LIBRARY.

The Library contains about fifteen hundred volumes, selected expressly for the College. It is accessible to all the students.

APPARATUS.

An extensive Philosophical and Chemical Apparatus has been procured and is now in successful use. It affords the means for a satisfaetory illustration of the most important doctrines in the various departments of Astronomy, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

CABINET.

The College has purchased of James Barnett, D. D., Missionary at Cairo, Egypt, an Oriental Cabinet, the result of seventeen years labor in Palestine and Egypt, containing ancient coins, geological specimens from Sinai and regions about the Red Sea, and many articles of interest to students of Bible History. The College has also procured from the State a Geological Cabinet, consisting of duplicate specimens from the State Geological Cabinet at Springfield, which has been arranged on appropriate cases, and furnishes the students an opportunity of studying the geological structure of our own State.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

There are four Literary Societies in the College—the Philadelphian, Eccriteun, Amateurs des Belles Lettres and Aletheorian. These are all on a good footing, and afford to their members respectively the opportunity of improvement in the branches of learning for the promotion of which they are established.

GOVERNMENT.

It is the aim of the Faculty to secure good order and diligence in study, by the force of moral and religious principles, rather than by direct exercise of authority. Those who persist in neglecting their studies, or in pursuing disorderly courses, or in exerting an evil influence, will not be permitted to remain in connection with the College.
